Profile

I am a fresh and passionate web developer, eager to get out into the industry and work in a team environment bringing new ideas to life. I come from a maori culture which is rich in art and also have a background in art and animation. I love to create and build anything both beautiful and intuitive. With these skills and knowledge I possess, I looking to contribute to projects and help get more tech out into the world to help people. I have a kind and tranquil personality that meshes extremely well in team focused environments.
